With the TenPointNine Principle, coaches and squads can place the rifle straight into the arms of the beginner.

The TenPointNine Principle is made of high grade, specially dyed, waterproof canvas. Its non stretch and hard wearing properties allow for a solid anchor point for the sling. The pressure is then equally distributed across the back. All of the trimmings are of the highest quality, premium clips, TopGrip and velcro ensure long lasting performance.

The TenPointNine Principle provides an adjustable sturdy sling point for the prone position, enabling an easy introduction for beginners. Promoting a solid sling position leads to a consistent shooting position as the shooter progresses.

The TenPointNine Principle is available in 7 sizes, xs-3xl, with each size being appropriate for a wide range of sizes and an overlap of sizes.

Simply select a size, affix around the upper chest, under the arms, clip the TopGrip strap into the back, pull a sling around the upper bicep, loop the strapping under the sling and clip into place. You can then adjust the sling position by altering the length of strapping.
